

You have been

"MASINTEd" by your doctor!

If you Have:

- been weighed on a scale: The doctor took a gravity measurement.
- had a Magnetic Resonance Image (MRI) taken of you internal organs: Magnetic measurements were taken. The output was a picture to make the information easier for the physicians to use
- had a mammogram taken: Infrared measurements were taken. Again, the output was an image to make it easier to use.
- taken a hearing test: Acoustic measurements were taken.
- Had an electroencephalogram (EEG- brain waves): Electromagnetic wave measurements were taken.
- Had radioactive tracers used to detect infection or had radiation therapy: Nuclear measurements were taken.

- Had a biopsy (tissue sample), blood or urine test:
Material measurement and identification occurred.

In each case, something was measured, processed, compared to know norms(signatures) and disseminated to your doctor(the all source analyst) for diagnosis(analysis), who would then give her opinion to the decision maker (you the patient...hopefully).

The MASINT community works exactly the same way! It has a global reach, often taking measurements over vast distances with devices on the land, under the ocean, in the air, and orbiting in space.
